Personal Summary

Prior to my journey in software development, I worked in the restaurant & hospitality industry. I thrived in the high stress & fast paced environment and enjoyed helping others, through food, laughter, and service. My work ethic and congenial nature allowed me to be promoted to management positions where I cultivated problem solving and leadership skills. Despite my success in the hospitality industry, I always aspired to one day work in Computer and Information Technology. From a young age, I built various computers and spent most of my free time at computer cafe's, playing computer games, and keeping up with the latest trends in technology. For the past 2 years I have worked to achieve my goal of becoming a software developer. I believe my energetic personality, desire to continually learn, and productive nature would make me an ideal candidate for your position. I could not be more excited to potentially join your team as a software developer.
